

THE MIDWEST BOOK REVIEW

---

JAMES A. COX
Editor-in-Chief
mwbookrevw@aol.com
<http://www.midwestbookreview.com>

278 Orchard Drive
Oregon WI 53575
(608) 835-7937
mbr@execpc.com

Small Press Bookwatch: May 2008
James A. Cox, Editor-in-Chief
Midwest Book Review
278 Orchard Drive, Oregon, WI 53575

The Money/Finance Shelf

Whistle Blowing
Joel D. Hesch, Esq.
Goshen Press
3540 Ridgcroft Drive, Lynchburg, VA 24503
9780977260201, $15.95, www.howtoreportfraud.com

Nearly two million dollars could be waiting for anyone who has the intestinal fortitude to be something that should be first nature to all of us - being a good citizen. "Whistle Blowing: A Guide to Government Reward Programs" outlines how the government has set forth a trio of programs that offer an average of $1.75 million dollars as a reward for reporting fraud against the government or something such as tax evasion. The process, however, is a difficult one, and "Whistle Blowing: A Guide to Government Reward Programs" is here to guide readers through the process so they can properly help the country and make themselves rich in the process. "Whistle Blowing: A Guide to Government Reward Programs" is highly recommended to community library finance collections and for any citizen who wants to get rewarded for their good deeds for a change.